DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 5-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention, and failing to further limit the parent claims due to improper form. Accordingly, the claims 5-8 have not been further treated on the merits.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Stark et al. US Patent 5,052,375.

2. As to claim 1, Stark et al. disclose an orthopedic aid (fig1, 2) with two parts (fig.2, 6aa, 6ab) which are movable relative to one another (two parts are hinged, fig.4, 20b) and with a locking device () for locking the two parts in a predetermined relative position and for unlocking the parts in order to permit movement of the parts with respects to one another ("locking" and "unlocking" are considered inherent function of the control manual 10 which extends or flexes the two parts, therefore allowing extension would prevent or lock flexion and vice versa), wherein the locking device can be actuated electromechanically (via 10, figs.1,4,12) from a control module (10; figs.1,4,12), and an actuating signal can be sent by wireless transmission from an actuating unit to the control module, as to claim 2 wherein the actuating unit is integrated into a walking aid (fig.1, 2) (fig.2 seem to disclose the actuator unit is secured to the walking aid, therefore considered integrated) ,

3. As to claim 3, Stark et al. do not disclose wherein the actuating unit is accommodated in a handgrip of the walking aid, and as to claim 4 do not disclose wherein an actuating button is arranged on a free end face of the handgrip. However, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skills in the art to alternate the location of the actuating unit for meeting patient's need and comfort.

Claim Objections

4. Claims 5-8 are objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c) as being in improper form because a multiple dependent claim should refer to other claims in the alternative only. See MPEP § 608.01(n). Accordingly, the claims 5-6 have not been further treated on the merits.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record on form PTO-892 and not relied upon: US 5,103,807 discloses electronic control system used with an orthopedic aid.
